

The Shakerite

37th Year, No. 12 — Shaker Heights High School, Shaker Heights, Ohio — April 14, 1967

Directed by Reynold C. Ellis and John C. Barner

Seven Brigadoon Leads Enjoy Romp Through Misty Scottish Highlands

Seven Shaker students will take the lead roles in the musical production, Brigadoon, tonight and tomorrow night. These juniors and seniors, along with the rest of the cast, have been working for the last two months on the play.

Beverly Gans plays Fiona MacLaren, the soprano lead. She is a friendly, well-liked young woman, who at 24 fears becoming a spinster. She is idealistic about meeting the right man for her, and falls in love with an American visiting Brigadoon. Says Bev of the play, "This is my first time on stage, and I love acting."

Jim Epstein plays Tommy Al-

bright, a young American who travels into the town of Brigadoon. There he meets Fiona, and falls in love with her. Jim sings the bass lead.

The alto lead, Meg, is played by Kathy Lackritz. Meg is the comedienne of the play, and is a vivacious character. Kathy, too, has enjoyed being in Brigadoon, and says "I have given up a great deal during rehearsals, but all the hard work has been worth it. The best part is the friendships formed with the rest of the cast."

Tommy Albright is accompanied on his trip to Brigadoon by Jeff Douglas, played by Mitchell

Dubick. Mitch's most memorable scene is a romp in a shed with Meg.

Junior David Book has the role of Mr. Lundie, the town philosopher. He is the only person able to relate the enchantment of Brigadoon. About his role, David comments, "Working on the role of Mr. Lundie has unfortunately forced me to neglect many responsibilities, but it's been a real groove."

Steve Giaimo, a tenor, has the role of Charlie Dalrymple. He plays opposite Paula Rose, who is Jeannie, Fiona MacLaren's younger sister. The couple fall in love, and eventually marry.

These students, all members of the A Cappella Choir, were selected for their roles in January.

Experienced Trio Leads Cast to Heather and Yon

Brigadoon, opening tonight, has traversed the road from try-outs to production in the hands of its experienced directors, Reynold C. Ellis, Charles F. Domovich, and John C. Barner.

Mr. Domovich, the new member of the crew, entered Shaker as a social studies teacher and as technical director last fall. He hailed from Harvey, Illinois, where he worked as technical director at Washington Junior High School.

He is pleased with the work of the technical crews, especially that of costumes and construction, and feels that while there is a nucleus of interested students, "the school in general lacks a much-needed interest and participation in the activities of the Drama Department."

This is Mr. Barner's fifth year at Shaker, and Brigadoon is his fourteenth production. Head of the Drama Department, he directs all of Shaker's school-wide plays and teaches speech and theater classes, and sponsors the Shaker troop 815 of the National Thespian Society.

Mr. Ellis, director of Shaker's choral groups and co-ordinator of music education for the Shaker schools, also finds time to be organist and musical director at Suburban Temple. He has wanted to do Brigadoon for a long time, but until now has not for lack of enough accomplished dancers to fill the many dancing roles. He has confidence in this year's talent, however, and looks forward, as does everyone, to two fine performances.

Clans Cavort In Costumes

Betty Huston, aided by several members of the Drama Department, is managing the task of outfitting the entire cast of Brigadoon.

The choir members are divided into six clans, each clan with its own distinctive plaid. Boys sport plaid kilts and tams; girls wear long, full-skirted country dresses accented by plaid sashes or ruffles.

Besides the chorus, which sings several songs en masse and backs up solo voices in the refrains, Brigadoon has 16 dancers who perform periodically as an integral part of the musical. Karen Craig, girls' dance instructor, and Debby Weisberger, a member of Modern Dance Club, have choreographed all dances.

Stage Crew Plans Sets

The time-consuming behind-the-scenes work of the stage crew will be apparent in tonight's performance of Brigadoon. This 60-member crew, headed by stage manager Steve Bossin, is responsible for all lighting, sound, scenery, make-up, and costumes.

Because only two sets will be used, lighting techniques and color variations will be important in creating the settings for the musical. Work on sound is less involved because it will consist entirely of tape-recorded sound effects. Technical director for the production is Charles L. Domovich.

Scenery will be two drops, or curtains, one depicting Brigadoon Street and the other illustrating a forest scene. These drops, professionally painted, will be rented from the Lakewood Civic Theatre. Set designer is Mike Fernberg.

Make-up, required for every member of the cast, is under the supervision of Debbie Minkin. Work on costumes, which are handmade and fitted by members of the stage crew, started eight weeks ago.
